

Bonnie Barque „The Bergen“

Sleep why do you wake me from the dreams you bring, dreams came to me where I lay.

Deep the melody the wild waves sing, and my love is far, far away.

Oh pity the hearts the wild waves part, my love sails the bonnie barque: „The Bergen“

He flings his nets out on the deck by night, dreams came to me where I lay and creeps out gentle in the dead of night, and my love is far, far away.

Oh pity the hearts the wild waves part my love sails the bonnie barque: „The Bergen“

He reaps the harvest of the cold North Sea, dreams came to me where I lay

It leaps with herring 'neath is deck for me, and my love is far, far away.

Oh pity the hearts the wild waves part my love sails the bonnie barque: „The Bergen“

Pity the hearts the wild waves part my love sails the bonnie barque: „The Bergen“

Pity the hearts the wild waves part my love sails the bonnie barque: „The Bergen“

The steep waves rise above his cold bare head, dreams came to me where I lay oh keep him save to lie here in my bed, and my love is far, far away.

Pity the hearts the wild waves part my love sails the bonnie barque: „The Bergen“

It weeps with rain tonight where my love lies, dreams came to me where I lay oh sweep the foreign sand from out his eyes, and my love is far, far away.

Pity the hearts the wild waves part my love sails the bonnie barque: „The Bergen“

Pity the hearts the wild waves part my love sails the bonnie barque: „The Bergen“
