

Caledonia

I can tell that you can see,
changes that have come over me.
These last few days I've been afraid, that I might drift away.
I've been telling stories, singing songs,
that make me think about where I come from.
That's the reason that I seem so far away today.

Let me tell you that I love you,
and I think about you all the time.
Caledonia, you're calling me, now I'm going home,
if I should become a stranger,
you know that it would make me more than sad.
Caledonia's been everything I've ever had.

I have moved, I've kept on moving, proved the points that I've needed proving,
lost the friends I needed losing, found others on the way.
I've kissed the ladies, I've left them crying, stolen dreams and there's no denying.
I've travelled far with conscience flying somewhere in the wind.

Let me tell you that I love you, ...

I'm sitting here beside the fire.
The empty room, the forest choir,
The flames that wouldn't grow any higher,
withered now and then.
My mind is set, my heart is clear,
And I know what I will do tomorrow.
Hands are shaken and kisses fly, I will disappear.

Let me tell you that I love you, ...